Instruction for interviewers

During the interview, the Member / Members of the household should be inquired about the volume of expenses incurred by the household.

The survey includes only non-formal activities of households with the purpose of producing goods and services, without creating a legal entity.

Note: In case it is impossible to inquire the selected household, it is necessary to find a replacing one in the same enumeration area, to ensure the number of sampled households in the area.

The questionnaire is not intended to include activities of household members who are registered as taxpayers for their activities.

In order to fill the questionnaire, it is necessary to evaluate expenses incurred for goods and services used in the production process. For example: in case a household consumes its own produced or purchased flour, firewood, other fuel, or electricity for baking bread, costs of these items should be indicated.

The interviewer should assess all the costs of own-produced goods used in the production process, which should be valued at the purchaser's prices (prevailing at the market available for respondent or at selling prices from their residences).

Intermediate consumption expenditures should be recorded in nominal values or in volume quantities (kilograms, liter and etc.) for particular cases.

In some cases, a respondent may find it difficult to evaluate whole expenditures during the year. In this case, expenses should be evaluated by the nearest period (for the previous day, week, or month). In case it is impossible to determine intermediate consumption expenditures, the cell should remain blank.

In case the cost of item is unclear, the relevant box should remain blank, while the respondent should indicate the volume of product consumed in kind, with respective units of measurement (grapes - kg, firewood - cubic meters and so on). Expenditures should be estimated for a week or month and then generalized for the whole year, when certain goods are produced on a daily basis, and it is difficult to evaluate the annual expenditures directly.

Example: In case the household consumed 10 kilograms of cheese per week and used 10 liters of milk to produce 1 kilogram of cheese, 100 liter of milk is used on a weekly basis, which should be used for estimation of annual intermediate consumption.
